KAROLO YA BONE: THANOLO

Tlhophha temana 7 kgotsa 8 mme o bo o e ranola.

7 Temana ya Seesemane: ranolela mo puong ya Setswana.

The intelligence of the elephant is sometimes human-like. One day an elephant descended into the Zambezi river to drink water. While drinking, it felt a crocodile catching hold of its trunk and trying to pull it into the water.

Then the elephant lifted the crocodile out of the water, hoisted it up with its trunk, and carried it away into the veldt, a long way from the river. When it reached the dry land, it placed the crocodile on the ground and said, ‘You meant to kill me, remain where you are so that I can see whether you will live away from water’. The crocodile pleaded with the elephant to no avail.

Children pulled out the thorns from the elephant’s trunk. In the afternoon, it plucked some wild fruit and followed the children who were playing in the cornfields. The children ran away to hide in the hut next to the field. It came and knelt down in front of the little hut. The children were frightened, as they thought the elephant had come to kill them. They heard it drop something down outside, retrace its steps, and return in the direction of the veldt. The elephant had brought wild fruit for the children in gratitude.
