Part 3: Translation

Translate the following passage into Urdu.

Along with many other nations, Pakistan's fishing industry is facing numerous problems. Sea levels are rising, so salt water is flowing further into rivers and is affecting freshwater fish. Ocean fish stocks are also declining because of over-fishing and pollution.

Fishing with nets is the most common method in Pakistan. Repairing them is mostly done by hand as little modern machinery is available. Boats are usually brightly painted and vary from large motor boats to small rowing boats. Some fishermen have had to become expert mechanics because they have to rely on their engines while far out at sea. Nowadays many fishermen are deciding to become full time motor mechanics because it is a more reliable source of income than relying on an uncertain future at sea. The average catch is now less than two tonnes a day whereas only twenty years ago it was as much as six or seven tonnes a day. About twenty five percent of this catch is exported, mainly to Europe, bringing in over 200 million dollars annually. [20]
