Festivals are celebrated by people all over the world. Learning about these customs can help us understand and appreciate different cultures, beliefs and ways of life. Festivals are often celebrated annually, and many are observed for religious reasons. Some take place on the same date every year like Christmas, but others may be celebrated on different dates because they are determined by the solar or lunar calendars, such as Diwali or Eid.

Some festivals last only for one day; others may last for several days or even weeks. Some are a quiet time for reflection and remembrance, whereas others take the form of a celebration, carnival or parade. People often visit their relatives and friends, and special food may be prepared to mark the event. It is common to exchange gifts and good wishes. In some cultures, children might receive extra pocket money to spend. Shop windows may be decorated with magical displays which children love to admire.

These occasions are also an opportunity for people to think of those less fortunate than themselves, and some families give money to charity at these times. The celebrations often encourage people to forget old arguments and to extend the hand of friendship. Some even take an oath not to speak badly of anyone.
